

Norayma Cabot Executive Director

Dear Supporters,

I am honored and humbled to join the Los Angeles Center for Law and Justice and lead the agency in its new chapter. We all owe a tremendous amount of gratitude to Matt Strieker for his 4+ years of commitment and strong leadership that has left LACLJ poised for a bright future.

As an experienced nonprofit leader and the daughter of immigrants, I am excited to join LACLJ and for all that we can achieve together. What inspires me the most about our mission is our focus on empowering low-income survivors to create their own future. I grew up not too far from our office in East LA, and I know firsthand the strength and resiliency that exists in our communities. The families we serve are inspiring, and it is my honor to be of service to them.

My focus over the last 15 years of my career has been in leading successful organizations and working with vulnerable communities. Most recently, my work concentrated on providing comprehensive and holistic services to children and families throughout LA County to ensure equal opportunity, empowerment of families, social services, and access to quality education regardless of status.

I am excited to lead LACLJ because I passionately believe in justice. I believe that survivors deserve access to justice regardless of their ability to pay and that we should lend our support to those most vulnerable in our community. I know the survivors we serve are resilient and that a strong advocate by their side can mean the difference between despair and hope for them. That's the power of LACLJ.

My goal is to collaborate closely with you – our donors, volunteers, partners, and neighbors – to carry on our mission and expand our impact so that no survivor feels disempowered within our judicial system and families are protected from violence. I await the opportunity to meet you, and in the meantime, please feel free to connect with me at norayma@laclj.org or 323-980-3500 x220.

Thank you for joining me and the rest of the LACLJ team in ensuring Los Angeles survivors know they have advocates on their side. I look forward to working with you!

Sincerely,
